Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Classification of Units Involved in Construction, and Additions and Betterments: Issued by the Railroad Commission of Washington, 1909 The Railroad Commission has received many inquiries from railroads building within the state as to what Information they should furnish relative to their construction. The Railroad Commission Law provides that the Commission shall ascertain the original cost, cost of additions and betterments, cost of reproduction, and the depreciated value of the railroads within the state. The forms shown on pages 33 to 37 of the annual report provide for a statement of the cost of road, divided into accounts, as well as the cost of additions and betterments. The original cost of a railroad and its cost of reproduction should be identical for a brief period of time following its completion; but conditions change and prices fluctuate, and in order that the estimated cost of reproduction may be modified in accordance with such conditions and prices, It is necessary that the unit quantities entering into the construction of the railroads shall be known, and it was to this end that the Classification of Construction and Equipment was formulated. (Form A). Additions, Improvements and betterments increase the construction cost, and affect the units of construction, and in order that such changes might be noted, and the estimated cost of reproduction be kept up to date, the Classification of Construction and Equipment Applying to Additions and Betterments was formulated. (Form B). Copies of the above were submitted to the railroads, and at the hearing held in Olympia, September 2, 1909, several minor changes in Forms A and B were suggested, and such changes have been made. It...
